Moving day in Bali

The third day of qualifying for the Bermuda Bowl, Venice Cup and d’Orsi Seniors Trophy saw several teams making moves in positive directions.

None was more dramatic than the surge by USA1 in the Bermuda Bowl. With victories over Guadaloupe, Chinese Taipei and the Netherlands, the latter a 40-5 rout, the Americans moved from 15th in the field of 22 to eighth, the final qualifying spot.

In the Venice Cup, England moved into sixth place from ninth, and in the Seniors, USA2 ended the third day of play in fifth place, moving up from ninth.

Round Robin play continues today and concludes on Monday. The quarter-finals begin on Tuesday of next week.

It’s all in the family

By Brent Manley

She is a long way from home and playing in some tough competition in the Venice Cup in Bali, but Fatima Raza of Karachi, Pakistan, is having the time of her life. “I thought the zonal trials were great,” she said on Thursday, “but this is better.”

The occasion is made even more special for Raza because two of her teammates are her mother and partner, Rubina Hai, and her grandmother, Qudsia Dossa. The Pakistani Venice Cup team can safely lay claim to being the only squad with three generations of players from the same family.

Dossa has been playing duplicate since 1981, the same year that Zia Mahmood – a family friend – led his underdog team to the silver medal in the Bermuda Bowl in Port Chester NY. She learned to play from her parents, former whist players. The same year she started duplicate, she went to India for the zonal trials. Her team didn’t make it, but she has played in the Venice Cup twice – in Monte Carlo in 2003 and Sao Paulo, Brazil, in 2009. (Continued on page 2)

WBF Women's Committee

A very successful meeting of the WBF Women's Committee was held on 18th September in Bali led by Anna Maria Torlontano. Representatives came from the eight WBF Zones.

The main item discussed was the Women's Online Bridge Festival. This will be held twice a year and the next edition will be held from 11th – 17th November 2013, with the prize for the winning player being free entry to the Women's Pairs at the World Bridge Series in Sanya, the player being able to select a partner of her choice. Accommodation in a twin room for the period of the Women's Pairs Championship will also be provided.

It is hoped to include an additional time slot that will enable players in the Far East to join the event more easily and some of the tournaments will be IMP scored.

It is also planned to provide some bulletins and a commentary on some of the deals played.

The meeting was closed at 10.30 with warm thanks to the chairman.

Laws Committee meeting

The Laws Committee will meet for the second time Sunday at 14.45 in the Kintamani Room on the mezzanine floor.

Duplimates available

The Duplimates used here in Bali will be sold at the end for Euro 2,350. You can pre-order at the Jannersten book stall on the top floor.

(Continued from page 1) Zia is well acquainted with the family. Whenever he visits his home in Pakistan, he books a few golf games with Hai's son, Ali, the top amateur golfer in the country. Zia is impressed with the women's showing. "It's great for bridge," he said.

Dossa runs a duplicate game for women once a week in Karachi and is president of the Women's Bridge Association of Pakistan, which has about 50 members.

Hai started playing 10 years ago, developing her interest because of her mother's love for the game.

Raza started only one year ago while she was pregnant with her second child. Morning sickness was giving her fits, and her doctor suggested that she take up some activity – perhaps chess – to take her mind off the problem. Because of the family's history with bridge, she chose that sport and has had spectacular results.

Traveling to Ahmedabad, India, for the zonal trials, the team led throughout to win the event and a trip to Bali. "We just put in hard work," said Dossa. Raza said there is a good team spirit as well. "We never blame anyone."

They have also benefited from coaching by expert player Tahir Masood. "We work four or five hours a day to learn more," said Hai.

Raza and her mother share an experience in the United States. Both studied at the University of Indiana, Hai earning a master's degree in English literature. Raza studied finance and marketing and worked for a time as an investment banker at the Standard Chartered Bank in Dubai.

Raza said she has been impressed with the high standard of bridge she has encountered in Bali. "It's great fun," she said. "This is the best."

After the dramatic (for some teams, traumatic) opening round, the deals were somewhat less demanding – at least that appeared to be the case in the Venice Cup match I elected to follow which involved England and Poland.

You could possibly make a case for West to go on to 5♦ at the end, but in this type of situation it is easy to be blinded by hindsight.

Here, too, South led her heart, covered by the jack, queen and ace and declarer played a diamond to the queen and ace. South ruffed the heart return and declarer claimed the rest, for +150 but 10 IMPs to Poland.

South led the seven of spades and declarer won with dummy's king perforce, played the ten of hearts for the queen and ace, ruffed a spade and played a heart. South won and switched to the queen of diamonds, a good shot which here only resulted in declarer recording an overtrick; +450.

2♦ Hearts

For the second time in the match West faced a situation where her partner had shown a suit via a transfer and then bid again. She was consistent with her previous action when she passed, but once again she was on the wrong side of the scorecard as her +200 meant 6 IMPs for Poland.

With time running out, Poland led 20-6 when this deal hit the table:

Although there are many different ways to defend against the Multicoloured 2♦, almost every method uses an immediate double to show a balanced hand in the range of 13-15 or a stronger hand with 19+, and that was clearly in operation here. When East jumped to the four level, West was happy to try for the game bonus.

South led her heart and declarer won in dummy with the king and played the eight of diamonds. North took the ace and tried to cash the king of clubs, but declarer ruffed, drew trumps and eventually lost a heart trick for +600.

No doubt West was hoping her fifth club would be as good as the queen but with East only having four trumps going on to 7♣ proved to be an expensive decision. (You might argue that West could have 'shown' the club queen on the previous round.)

South led the eight of spades and declarer won in dummy and played a club to the ace. When South discarded she could set up the diamonds and deal with the trump suit, but she was one down, -50.

By stopping in 6♣, England picked up 14 IMPs to secure a 20-20 draw.

One final point; suppose East comes to rest in 6♦ and South leads a spade? Declarer must win in dummy, come to hand with a heart and play three rounds of diamonds. Whoever wins the trick will be endplayed.

Old versus New Zealand, and more

By Jan van Cleeff

Anneke Simons spent most of her life in Amsterdam. She was born and raised, however, in Zeeland, a province in the southwestern part of The Netherlands, bordering Belgium. So in a way she originates from Old Zeeland. Therefore Anneke must have had special thoughts when she played against New Zealand in Round 1 of the Venice Cup. One board in particular she will not soon forget:

Effective bidding led to the good slam, which was an easy make of course. Easy stuff? Not quite. At the other table the slam was missed, but what about the match Poland v. Canada, where things ran completely out of hand when the Canadian E/W pair 'reached' 3NT and went down one. So, a great result for Poland was in the air ... well, maybe not.

After a slight misdefence the final contract went three light only. Still the Canadians quite unexpectedly won 12 IMPs on the board.

I feel sorry for the Polish E/W pair, though. For a long time they did everything right on the board. The only thing they had to do was to run from North's 'Fredin double' to 7♥ at the very end.

For those who don't know about the Fredin double, here's the story. In 1997 at the European Championships in Montecatini, Swedish superstar Peter Fredin doubled his German opponents in 4♠ vulnerable. If I remember correctly, the Swede, who was in fourth position, possessed 100 honours in the trump suit. The Germans wisely ran to 7♣, which proved to be a make.

In Round 3 of the Seniors, two teams with World Senior Championship titles to their names – Japan and France – had to meet. Not surprisingly, a tight match followed. Below, here are a few boards that did produce a sizeable swing.

On the first board, France gained 7 IMPs by bidding and making a non-vulnerable game against rather less than perfect defence, but then came Board 2:

An early diamond shift and perfect defence from then on (North having to rise with his ♣K on the first round of the suit), or a hypothetical immediate diamond lead, would beat 4♠. But when the French took the possibly phantom sacrifice, they soon found out there was no way to eleven tricks. According to the official score, the contract actually went two down, to make it +500 and 15 IMPs to Japan rather than 13.

The French quickly got a measure of revenge when they bid the excellent slam on the next board:

This hand perfectly suited the French Standard system, even more so when they were given a free run. 2♣ was any strong hand and the rest was natural.. Once North showed his clubs, the French would never stop short of slam; France +920 and 10 IMPs to them.

Next came a long series of flat and nearly flat boards, though both teams had their chances to out-bid the opponents, but failed to really exploit them. Nevertheless, the French had scored nine unanswered IMPs to lead by 26-15 as they went into the last five boards.

This was Board 12:

In the French approach, 2♥ showed a good raise and 3♦ was a help-suit trial bid. With about the worst diamond holding he could have, and also being not vulnerable, West saw no reason to go on, his ♠AK not looking like enough compensation for his 4-3-3-3 distribution; France+170.

Under the new VP scale, all IMPs count so I am happy to report to you that France gained three more of them on Board 14, due to an experimental lead that did not come off against a cold and routine 3NT. Maybe, not quite routine – as you would make 6♦ if you happened to be in it.

Then came Board 15, on which we saw a remarkable result in the never-ending battle of science against timing:

In the Closed Room, the French had done well to stay out of a no-play 3NT when East could make a spade overcall after 1♣ – 1♦. On the lucky trump layout, 4♦ made for +130 to France.

Open Room

West	North	East	South
Levy	Yamada	Leenhardt	Ohno
—	—	—	1NT

In the Open Room, their 1NT worked very well for the Japanese as it effectively prevented the lethal spade lead. When West led a heart, declarer had 11 tricks for +660 and 11 IMPs to Japan to regain the lead by 32-29 IMPs.

One extra overtrick to Japan on the final board made it 33-29 or 9.2 - 8.8 in V.P. due to time penalties.

Scotland are playing in their first World Teams Championships, in the d'Orsi Bowl. Their first match was a 13-7 win over Japan. Things were not going so well in their second match, against the hosts, Indonesia. Scotland was 18 IMPs behind when the penultimate board appeared:

When Iain Sime and John Murdoch were defending, East/West found their club fit, and followed with cuebids and key-card. Polii, East, made no enquiry about the queen of clubs so finished in what appears a very safe Six Clubs.

North led a heart. West won and laid down the ace of trumps, receiving a shock when South showed out. He decided he might as well give up the inevitable trump loser at once and led a low trump to the nine and ten. North led another heart.

Declarer suddenly realised he had made a tiny error which could prove costly. When South showed out at trick two he had played his lowest trump from hand without consideration. So this was now the trump position with West on lead:

♣ Q3		♣ K7
♣ J86
♣ None

If declarer still had the five and six of trumps he could enter dummy by finessing the seven, ruff a diamond, draw the last trump and test the diamonds before relying on the spades. This would lead to success when the diamonds break 3-3.

However, in the actual position shown the seven of trumps was no longer an entry. If declarer led the six Sime could play the queen and deny dummy the entry.

So declarer lacked the entry to set up the diamonds. He therefore simply drew trumps, ditched two spades on the top diamonds and was left with four spade honours and a trump. Now he started to count the hand.

South had been void of clubs and there were strong indications he held at least four spades. Declarer bravely decided to finesse the ten. When this lost to the jack the small slam had gone one down. This was a cruel punishment for the error at trick two of failing to unblock the eight of trumps!

At the other table Willie Coyle decided to make a jump rebid in spades, implying a solid suit. Hence Silverstone's immediate raise to Seven Spades. South, looking at the void club, made a Lightner double and all passed.

The spotlight now fell on North. The opponents had not bid clubs or hearts so it was unlikely either of those was partner's void. And so he led a diamond, thinking East might have seven (as he did) and West three.

Coyle won the diamond lead, drew trumps (without finessing), ruffed out the diamonds and claimed.

Scotland had gained 18 IMPs on the deal when they might have lost 14. The match was level.

Board 32 gave Scotland 2 IMPs and their second win by 11-9.

On Sept. 8, Brazil made good their pledge to treat their Independence Day friendly against Australia like a World Cup match, trouncing the outclassed Socceroos 6-0 at the Mane Garrincha stadium on Sunday.

In Bali, the first round of the day confronted Brazil with Australia again, but today the athletes used cards instead of a ball.

USA2, an under-performing team considering the line-up of players, started the second day of qualifying in 21st place and was in need of a boost to give themselves a shot at one of top eight spots in their bracket. The team started well, defeating China 37-9 (16.42 VPs to 3.58) in the first match. Their opponents for the second match were Brazil, lying tenth at the start of the day.

The first two board were pushes, then an unlucky opening lead led to a 10-IMP loss for USA2.

Martel had ruffed with a natural trump trick, but he had a chance to get it back by playing a club to Zia's ace for a fourth round of hearts, promoting a second trump trick to assure three down and +800. Instead, Martel cashed the ♠A and continued with a spade to declarer's queen. The grateful declarer pulled trumps and conceded a club for two down and +500 for USA2.

Perhaps the Brazilians got mixed up on the meaning of the double. West's action definitely looks like a take-out action rather than penalty.

In any case, Brenner led the ♣A, switching to a low spade at trick two. Brenner was back on lead after Marco Toma won the ♠A and returned the suit. Brenner tried to cash another club, but Martin Fleisher ruffed and played a diamond to dummy's king. When the ♦A showed the suit to be 2-2, Fleisher could claim an overtrick for +380 and a 7-IMP gain.

Brazil picked up vulnerable game swings on Boards 12 and 13 to solidify the trouncing. The final score was 49-10 in favor of Brazil.

USA2 rallied in the final set of the day, beating the strong team from Poland 41-22, but the team moved up only one place in the standings to 20th, well off the pace for a qualifying spot.

I consulted my éminence grise on the French bidding system as to the auction. As you have probably guessed 1NT covered a number of hands but was not forcing, while 2♠ suggested a maximum with a doubleton heart.

South led the ace of diamonds and continued the suit. Declarer won with the queen, played a heart to the king and the ten of hearts, getting the bad news as North pitched the seven of spades. She won with the ace and continued with the queen, both dummy and North discarding a club. Declarer continued with a spade to the ace, pitched a club on the king of diamonds as South ruffed.

She continued with the ace and ten of clubs and declarer ruffed and played the eight of spades. When South went up with the king East had escaped for one down, -50.

Where is Kokish when you need him? With no one to consult I can only conclude that French style has crossed the Atlantic.

This time South elected to lead the six of spades for the ten, jack and queen. (Of course you can argue that it was an unlucky choice, but my analytical advisor is heavily in favour of the ace of diamonds). Declarer played a spade to the ace and a diamond to the queen, South winning with the ace and returning the two. Declarer won in hand, ruffed a spade, cashed the king of hearts and then pitched a club on the king of diamonds. South ruffed and must now underlead her ace of clubs so North can win and return a diamond, promoting the jack of hearts. When South played the king of spades declarer could ruff and draw trumps; +420 and 10 IMPs for USA2.

South decided to force the dummy by playing a heart and declarer ruffed and played the queen of clubs, covered by the king and ruffed. A spade to the jack was taken by North's ace and declarer won the diamond return with dummy's king, played a spade to the ten, ruffed a heart and claimed for +420.

To defeat 4♠ North must go in with the king of clubs and return a diamond. Now declarer cannot avoid a diamond ruff, as the possibility of a ruffing club finesse has been eliminated.

This is not an easy play to find but remember South had led the queen of hearts – did that suggest she had something useful in clubs?

I can't be sure about the auction (Murphy's law applies, as Sue Picus, who was sitting next to me when I typed up the previous deal, might well have known the exact meaning) but it got E/W to slam after their inverted minor start (this time it was East who bid 2♦).

North led the four of diamonds and declarer won with the eight and played a club to the king. When that held she ducked a club and was soon claiming +920 and 11 IMPs that saw USA win by 42-30 IMPs, 13.28-6.72 VP.

USA v. The Netherlands, Seniors

The Mysterious Multi (Not to be confused with The Mysterious Multi, a bestseller written by Mark Horton and an unknown ghost writer) – by Jan van Cleeff

For decades the Multi 2♦ opening bid, usually showing a weak two in one of the majors, has been common practice in the Old Continent. In the New World, however, the Multi, in spite of the above mentioned book, is still not widely adopted and sometimes even prohibited.

At international championships, the convention is allowed, which might lead to grotesque results when you are not used to playing against it. Take this deal for instance:

South Pacific

Mark Horton

South Pacific is one of the best known musicals created by the famous duo of Richard Rodgers (composer) and Oscar Hammerstein II (lyricist). The work premiered in 1949 on Broadway and was an immediate hit, running for 1,925 performances. It is based on James A. Michener's Pulitzer Prize-winning 1947 book Tales of the South Pacific, combining elements of several of the stories. Rodgers and Hammerstein believed that they could write a musical based on Michener's work that would be financially successful and, at the same time, would send a strong progressive message on racism.

Bali is not exactly in the South Pacific, but the musical contains a song entitled Bali Hai and that might give you a clue as to the theme that will run through this report.

When West passed South's double he was almost certainly denying three-card spade support. When his partner redoubled he was simply making a retransfer, so it would have been quite a view for West to pass (although it would have been spectacularly successful).

When East expressed his values via 3♥ West had an easy conversion.

North led the four of hearts and declarer took South's queen with the ace and played three rounds of spades followed by the jack of clubs, which held the trick. The ten of clubs was covered by the queen and ace, and declarer crossed to the king of diamonds to cash two spades. With nine tricks already in the bag declarer decided to exit with a club, which should have allowed the defenders to take all the remaining tricks via a squeeze on declarer, but South discarded a heart, so declarer scored a diamond at the end; +630.

If South thought his hearts were good enough to make a lead-directing double, he was quickly shown the error of his ways. One Heart redoubled would have been +1520 so South salvaged a few points by running.

West led the king of spades and continued the suit, East winning with the queen and cashing three more spades. West discarded a club and a heart and, had he parted with another heart, the defenders would have been in a position to score twelve tricks. However, he discarded a second club and when East switched to the nine of hearts declarer covered with the king. West took the ace and returned a diamond so the defenders took four tricks in that suit and still had the ace of clubs to come but West had to lead into South's heart tenace so declarer had two tricks, still -1100 and 10 IMPs to the Kiwis.

I wonder if South was tempted to call for a Bloody Mary?

East led the two of diamonds and declarer took West's queen with the ace, cashed the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, cashed the queen of spades, came to hand with a spade, ruffed a club, cashed the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, drew the outstanding trump, played a diamond to the king and a diamond, claiming twelve tricks for +480.

There was some Happy Talk at the other table:

According to the BBO record declarer received a diamond lead and easily made the contract (BBO went down at the critical moment) giving 13 IMPs to England.

South led the jack of hearts and declarer put up dummy's ace, drew trumps and advanced the eight of spades. South took the ace and the defenders cashed a heart and then played diamonds, declarer ruffing the third round and taking the spade finesse for +110.

When you first start playing bridge you've got to be carefully taught about the values required for opening bids, but here South's modernist opening bid meant N/S were never going to sell out to 3♣.

The defenders started with three rounds of clubs, declarer ruffing with the five of diamonds and West over-ruffing with the six. The ace of hearts was the last trick for the defence; +110 and 6 IMPs to England.

West led the two of diamonds and declarer won with the king, played a heart to the king, a diamond to the queen and a heart. West took the ace and exited with a diamond to dummy's ace. Declarer cashed two hearts ending in hand and played the jack of spades, West going up with the ace and exiting with a club to ensure a spade trick at the end. That was +630.

It is standard to pass with a good hand when the opponents start with a strong club and then bid on the next round, but clearly South did not envisage being opposite quite such a powerful collection. Perhaps North should double 1♠ and then bid 2NT on the next round.

East led the six of spades and declarer was allowed to win with the ten. He used dummy's diamond entries to play hearts and he also cashed the top clubs, so it was straightforward to record eleven tricks for +210 but 9 IMPs to the All Blacks.

Facing a 15-17 1NT was West being a cockeyed optimist by bidding an invitational 4NT?

(As an aside, one member of the Editors observed that it is pity that Tom Townsend does not partner a player called Thoreson.)

South led the ten of diamonds and declarer won with the ace, played a spade to the eight queen and three and then cashed six rounds of clubs (overtaking the second round in dummy) followed by a heart to the ace. South made no mistake discarding, so declarer took his only shot by exiting with a spade, hoping South had started with ♠A8. That was one down, -100.

It was a case of this nearly was mine for E/W for, as you can see, 6♣ will make in some comfort thanks to the spade position.

The responses to relays show suits, relative lengths, length of fragments, specific shape, controls and location of A/K/Q's. So, we can assume East had a good idea of West's hand and was not tempted to go beyond 3NT. Declarer took the eleven tricks he was entitled to gain 13 IMPs for the Silver Ferns.

Both teams attempted 4♥ with ♠K ♥KJ7 ♦AQJ962 ♣1084 facing ♠Q854 ♥A9863 ♦K8 ♣J6.

With three top losers you need the trumps to behave, but this was not some enchanted evening and they broke 4-1.

It was New Zealand who came away smiling, winners by 38-24 IMPs, 13.75-6.25.

World Championship Book 2013

The official book of these championships will be published around early March next year, when the price will be US$35 plus postage. For the duration of the championships, you can pre-order your copy at the special price of US$30 or €25 Euros, (two copies for US$55 or €45) post free (surface).

To order your copy, please see Jan Swaan in the Press Room on the ground floor of the conference centre.

The book will consist of 336 large pages with many photographs and a full results service. Every board of the finals of the Bermuda Bowl and Venice Cup will be covered, along with the best of the action from the rest of the tournament. Principle analysts will be Brian Senior, Barry Rigal, John Carruthers and Geo Tislevoll.

Shuttles to the convention centre will start one hour earlier today
